

Last Monday afternoon a grand game of football was played on the 'sports' ground. Those who came to enjoy the game were not disappointed, and the score a 60 all draw indicate that there was plenty of action. The ball was thrown about well, and despite the heavy grass, there were several fine individual runs. Although football is essentially a game for young men, the old brigade did not disgrace themselves. Frank Jack is still a hard playing forward who gave good support to the hard working Darcy Bourke and Fred Doolan for the Reds. Jim Stanley's pep talks to the Blues seemed to give them new life towards the end of the game. Herb Fisher playing five-eights for the Blues was in my opinion, the outstanding player in the field. He has the ability to run straight and give his three quarter room to move, and he engineered many of the tries scored by his wingers.

Darcy Bourke gave a fine display as a second row forward, particularly in attack.

The goal kicking was of a particularly high standard, and many of the kicks had to be taken from difficult positions. It is interesting to note there was little needless kicking during the game, and the short kick was used to great advantage. However, over-keenness on the part of the forwards put them off-side too many times, and far too many do not play the ball properly.

A word of praise must be given to Referee Puttaburra who handled the game very well.

Did You Ever Try This?

When baking a sultana cake simmer the sultanas slowly in a small cup of hot water in a saucepan for five minutes. Pour off any liquid, cool sultanas and add to cake. Makes the cake moist and sultanas juicy.
